THIS COLUMN WILL BE FEATURING NEW GAMES AND OLD GAMES ATTRACTING YOUR ATTENTION...

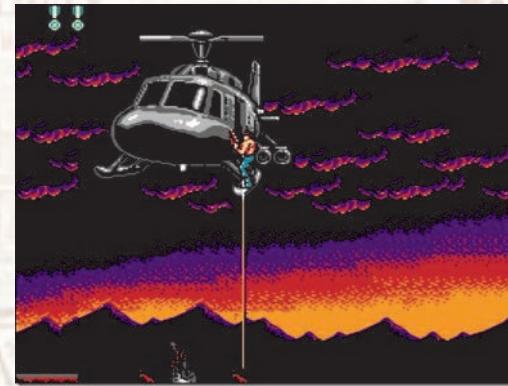

OLD IS GOLD

Most of us are now busy in the new era of gaming where we are surrounded by high tech gaming devices like Xbox , play stations, pc games which are no doubt much better than the old games we used to play....But many of you would agree with me ki "pehele ki games ki baat hi kuch aur thi". So now let's roll back in time, the era of VIDEO GAMES which we used to play with our families and friends. The adventure of Mario, the action of contra, the speed of road fighter and many more, these games have played a very major role in our childhood in fact the whole era of VIDEO GAMES have. As our month's theme is RETRO, I am going to make u remember the 2 old games.

SUPER MARIO – one of the most adventurous video games. The Mario character jumping over all hurdles and difficulties trying to save the princess passing through different worlds. The game was simple but yet difficult ,jumping over distances , eating mushrooms to turn into big character and many more exciting features of Mario. Till now 200 games have been made featuring Mario .several series of Mario have been made like super Mario bros 3, super Mario bros racing etc....you and I have spent our childhood tried to save the princess..

CONTRA- Contra is an action packed video game developed by KONAMI. In Contra, the player controls one of two armed military commandos named Bill "Mad Dog" Rizer and Lance "Scorpion" Bean, who are sent on a mission to neutralize a terrorist group called the Red Falcon Organization that is planning to take over the Earth. It was a multiplayer game also. The catchy thing about the game was the bombs that contained powers used to fall and many of us used to sacrifice our life for that. No one would have thought these details at the time of playing (:p)

NOT SO POLITICAL

-SAMARTH SONI

The Man who made "INDIA SHINE"

My journey down the memory lane to write my column on the monthly theme was indeed full of joy and ecstasy as I got the chance to recollect how our nation prospered in the last two decades. It saw numerous changes of governments at the centre and many political figures who had contributed to the nation's development. But for sure, as it would appeal to a political analyst, if a person ,probably a Nation Lover was ever seen during the last two decades, he can be no other than our most revered and venerable former Prime Minister Sh. Atal Bihari Vajpayee. Under his leadership, our nation had seen immense growth and modernisation. More importantly, it emerged as a Nuclear power not only in Asia but also in the whole world. Now let me back tread the path along his life and introduce you to the milestones he had set in the nation's progress as an Influential leader, a parliamentarian and above all, a man who wanted to see "India Shining".

With unerring foresight, Jawaharlal Nehru had made a prophecy about his succession. Impressed with the prodigious oratorical skills of a callow young man named Atal Bihari Vajpayee during his very first stint in Parliament, Nehru predicted that someday this youngster would be India's Prime Minister. Nehru had turned out to be on the dot with it. Atal Bihari chose to blaze an unparalleled trail in non-Congress parliamentary politics. Born on December 25, 1924 at Gwalior, Vajpayee has with him a political career spanning over four decades. Educated at Victoria (now Laxmibai) College, Gwalior, he is a journalist and social worker by profession. He has been a Member of Parliament since 1957. As a parliamentarian, Vajpayee has the rare distinction of being elected to the Lok Sabha nine times and to the Rajya Sabha twice. He is the only parliamentarian to have been elected from four different States at different times namely UP, Gujarat, MP and Delhi.

It wasn't easy making a mark in the Lok Sabha those days, as it was dominated by stalwarts like Ram Manohar Lohia, Madhu Limaye, Jyotirmoy Basu and other strident critics of Nehru and Indira Gandhi. Moreover, Atal Bihari espoused a brand of politics that was anathema to both the Congress and the Socialists. Also the Jan Sangh which he represented had too few MPs in the House to give him requisite vocal support. He came into his own only after the watershed election of 1967. That election sent the Congress juggernaut into reverse gear for the first time and anti-Congressism became an acceptable political credo - symbolized by the formation of Samyukta Vidhayak Dal (SVD) Governments in several States of North India. But Atal Bihari's political career had an unspectacular beginning. Like most young men of his time, he was charged by the twin currents of nationalism, and egalitarianism as a student in Gwalior in the 1940s. Along with his classmates, he participated in the Quit India Movement of 1942 but the movement fizzled out in most parts of the country within weeks. Meanwhile, the Communists had floated their student organization, All India Students' Federation (AISF), the only national organization of its kind. A member of that outfit, Atal Bihari was steeped in quasi-Marxist ideas. It was then that he also turned to writing poetry. While he could never qualify as a professional poet, Atal Bihari excelled in declamation.

Even as a student leader, he exercised mesmerizing charm on listeners. The Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), which he joined in his boyhood days, quickly instilled the potential as orator and groomed him adequately for the task. During his stint as pracharak, he used his skills to maximum to spread the RSS message in different parts of India. He was the Founder-Member of the Bhartiya Jana Sangh in 1951, which is the forerunner of today's Bharatiya Janata Party. Widely respected within the country and abroad as a statesman of the genre of Pt. Jawaharlal Nehru, Shri Vajpayee's 1998-99 stint as Prime Minister has been characterized as 'one year of courage and conviction.' It was during this period that India entered a select group of nations following a series of successful nuclear tests at Pokharan in May 1998. The bus journey to Pakistan in February 1999 was widely acclaimed for starting a new era of negotiations to resolve the outstanding problems of the sub-continent. Subsequently when the Kargil war took place, the nation commended Vajpayee's successful handling of the situation in pushing back the intruders from the Indian soil. It was during Vajpayee's successful tenure in 1998-99 that despite a global recession, India achieved a 5.8 percent GDP growth, which was higher than previous years. Higher agricultural production and increase in foreign reserves were indicative of an overall growth in an economy which was responding to the needs of the people.

The bold decisions taken by the country for strengthening rural economy, building a strong infrastructure and revitalizing human development programmes indicated their commitment to a strong and self-reliant nation to meet the challenges of the next century so as to make India an economic power in the 21st century. Speaking from the ramparts of the Red Fort on the occasion of the 52nd Independence Day, he had said, "I have a vision of India: an India free of hunger and fear, an India free of literacy and want." A man of the masses, firm in his political convictions, India has an inspiring leader in Atal Bihari Vajpayee. On October 13, 1999, he took charge as Prime Minister of India for a second consecutive term, the first being for a short time in 1996. As India's Foreign Minister, Chairperson of various important Standing Committees of Parliament and Leader of Opposition, he has been an active member in the shaping of post-Independence domestic and foreign policy. An ardent champion of women's rights and social equality, Vajpayee believes in a forward-looking India. India's second highest civilian honour, the Padma Vibhushan, was conferred upon him in 1992, in recognition of his selfless dedication to India. When he was declared India's Best Parliamentarian in 1994, the citation read: "True to his name Atalji is an eminent national leader, an erudite politician, a selfless social worker, forceful orator, poet and litterateur, journalist and indeed a multi-faceted personality... Atalji articulates the aspirations of the masses... his works ever echo total commitment to nationalism." Before his 6 years as prime minister came to an end on May 13, 2004, he had already transformed the face of the world's largest democracy into an economic and military power. This was how he made the nation progress as a true patriot.

Apart from what he did for the nation, he is at large an epitome of excellent interpersonal and social skills. His thrilling and passionate voice used to reverberate in the house whenever some discussions were being held. His good oratory skills had led his friend and political colleague L.K. Advani to develop inferiority complex. "I had told Atal Bihari Vajpayee in early 1970s that I have developed an inferiority complex due to your speeches... I tell the same to Sushma Swaraj also. I really mean it," Advani said at a program recently. So far no such vibrant leader has been seen in the parliament who can be compared to Vajpayee as far as oratory skills are concerned. Vajpayee had expressed very clear thoughts about his poetry: "My poetry is a declaration of war, not an exordium to defeat. It is not the defeated soldier's drumbeat of despair, but the fighting warrior's will to win. It is not the dispirited voice of dejection but the stirring shout of victory."

"A good leader can engage in a debate frankly and thoroughly, knowing that at the end he and the other side must be closer, and thus emerge stronger. You don't have that idea when you are arrogant, superficial, and uninformed."

TECHRADAR

SANCHIT GUGLANI

Well there is no reason I should make my readers

Introduce Retro Gadgets because everyone have heard about computers TV etc. So I am introducing some retro inspired gadgets in this edition...

So lets welcome the past again...:P

The Impossible Instant Lab –for High Tech Retro Photos

Is there anyone out there (that's old enough) that didn't own a Polaroid camera? I remember when one of those little fold up leatherette SX-70 cameras was about as high tech as you could get. Listening to the little motor grind as the picture fed out of the hopper, warming the picture against your chest or waving it in mid-air in the hopes of hastening the developing process. The camera is a dinosaur, and its demise marked the end of an era.

Or did it? Who knew there was a whole bunch of us out there that still loved the instant photo? Well, The Impossible Instant Lab will make you smile, while it bridges the gap between digital and concrete, by taking the photos stored away on your iPhone and turning them into actual Polaroid-esque prints, to have, and to hold, or simply to give away.

The folks over at Impossible (located in Germany) were so passionate about the old Polaroids they actually bought the factory (to ensure film stockpiles) and set out to develop a device that would get your stored photos out of digital storage, and into the real world with all the style and wonder of those beloved foldable cameras.

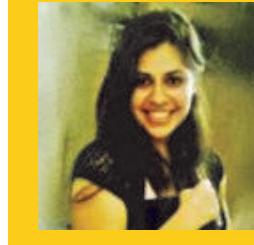

Sega Mega Drive Twin Player Console

Video gamers have this thing about retro games, and more often than not, they don't mind going back to the good old days once in a while and indulge in a little bit of nostalgia, where pixelated graphics ruled the day and the gameplay experience coupled with an overactive imagination proved to work better than just flashy graphics. For those who missed out on Sega's heydays as a home console manufacturer, here's the Sega Mega Drive Twin Player Console that allows you to go through a bunch of 16-bit classics.

Simply plug it into the telly and you're away. It might be smaller than the original but the Sega Mega Drive Twin Player Console is preloaded with 15 Sega licensed games, including Sonic and Knuckles, Alex Kidd, Golden Axe and many more. Better still you can bung in all those old Mega Drive and Genesis cartridges that have been languishing in the loft. Indeed, this nifty region-muncher doesn't care where your games originated.

You will be able to bring home the Sega Mega Drive Twin Player Console for just £39.95— a small price to pay for those glorious moments of yore without having to contend with the taint of downloading illegal ROMs.

RETRO REVIVED

Guyzzzzzz, are you still inspired by the classic Marilyn Monroe look or the elegant Audrey Hepburn????? Well then this article will surely help your fantasies come alive, when your lovely ladies don the evergreen and "never out of fashion" RETRO look.....

Retro is back as a spring 2013 fashion and beauty trend.

Isn't Deepika Padukone looking hot in that retrograde fashion???? Looks like, the retro look never really went out of style. On the contrary, it seems to be coming back, every season, seducing fashionistas each time with its particular brand of vintage charm and eternal beauty. Let's zoom in on this chic, feminine and timeless style, that makes the guys go weak in the knees..

Gals ,you just can't go wrong with the Katy Perry vintage look. Also the red lipstick and the hair style is a hot style quotient, and if you wear it to a party, it will make you look confident and elegant, as ever. Try it out, who knows you might be walking away with that "handsome guy", whom you always wanted to date.....

HAIR

From rockabilly chignons to artful bouffant, there is a wild selection of retro styles to try. Also, you don't just have to look back to the ancients for inspiration. There are plenty of new artists who regularly sport retro styles... take Lana Del Rey, for example.

MAKE-UP

As long as your lipstick is bold, any colour works: try bright fuchsia or an intense, glossy orange or a deep, matte red. As far as eye makeup goes, you can't go wrong with a bold cat-eye style .With your nails, go for a classic bright red.

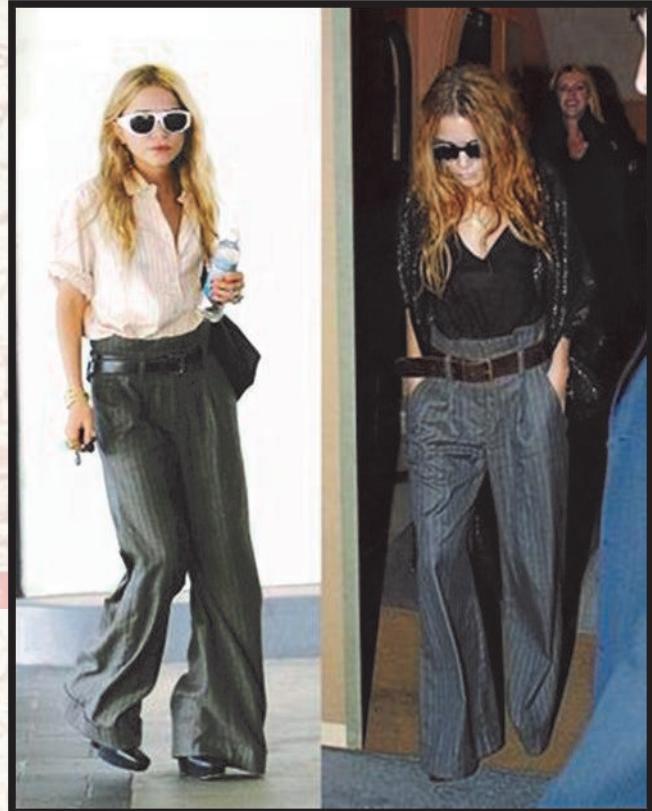

ACCESSORIZE

Once you have your hair and makeup covered, it is time to bring out the accessories! Big, bug-eyed sunglasses are key, as are bright-coloured scarves in your hair and bright floral patterns all over.

WIDE LEG PANTS

Wide leg pants, somewhat given by the 60's-70's era, has become a fashion rage. Pair it up intelligently, maybe with a blazer, and you'll have that vintage look blended with modern style. In the pic, you can actually see that blended look.

So guys, better put on those aviators and get those "Harley Davidson" starting, to match up these vintage girls. Also gals, whether you go all-out retro this season, or decide to embellish your look with a few little retro touches, remember that, in style, "what goes around, comes back around."

It's a girl thing!!!

HIMSHIKHA SUHAG

Who am i? Is that really important. Well no ! Or may b yes. You probably need a name but i cant give you that or lets say i am any ordinary girl with whom you sit next to in class, the girl you share your secrets with or the girl you probably BITCH about! !. Well that's how it is. My ip result landed me to this college Or should i say BVP (more of a school) :-/. The very day I stepped in the college , i knew my life is going to change but in which manner was yet to be discovered. My first few months in college got spent in knowing people, doing assignments and giving ses-sional!! :@Slowly slowly I got comfortable with bunch of other people (who matched my level of insanity) or in your lingo MY F.R.I.E.N.D.S .

Some people think I am a typical Delhi girl with lots of money , lots of BF's, lots of attention and tons of attitude. But that's not true (unfortunately) :(:(. Though you can say i am a rich brat who have almost everything a girl wish to have from designer cloths to shoes to bags and what not !. But is that all a girl needs?? Ohhh of course its a no.

A girl's heart always seeks for LOVE , lots of love from family , friends and that special someone. My parents have always been too busy in earning money and couldn't give as much attention as a single child wants. I have been lucky in department of friends, they are pretty amazing (thanks god at least I have some people in my life who loves me for who i am!). And jahan tak bat h special someone ki , well I am still in search of him. And i don't have much hope from this college :/. But u never know ;). May be he us right there in front of me. And i just need to figure him out :-D

SHIVAM BINDAL, ECE2, FIRST YEAR, BVCOE

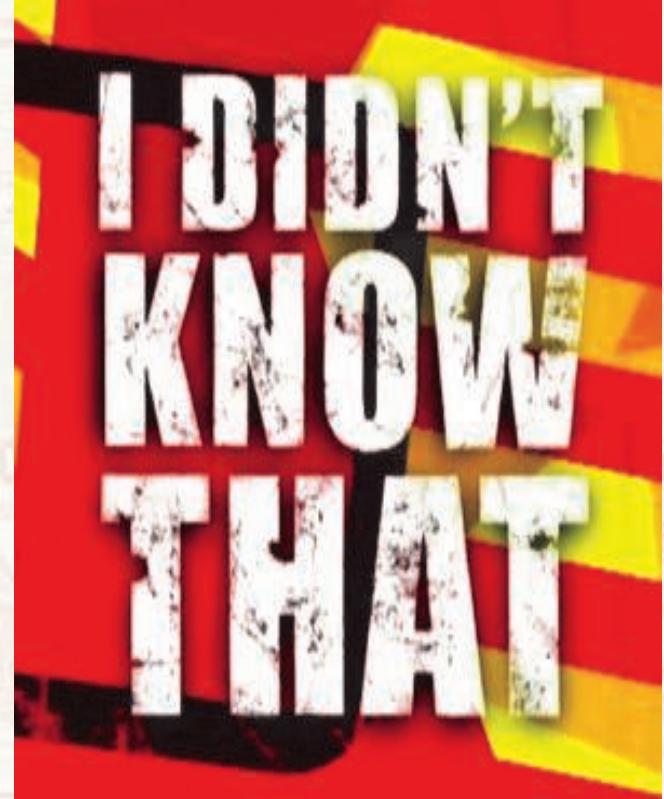

The style now called "retro art" is a genre of pop art which was developed in the 1940s and 1950s in response to a need for bold, eye-catching graphics that were easy to reproduce on simple presses available at the time in major centres. Retro advertising art has experienced a resurgence in popularity since its style is distinctive from modern computer-generated styling. Contemporary artist Anne Taintor uses retro advertising art as the centerpiece for her ongoing commentary on the modern woman. Specific styling features include analog machine design, vintage television program etc.

Perhaps the most famous example of a retro pop-art character is the more generalized form of the Ward Cleaver-styled J. R. "Bob" Dobbs-esque icon which has been widely played off, copied, and parodied.

Movie Review

ANMOL BANSAL

BACK TO THE FUTURE

CAST: Michael Fox, Christopher Lloyd, Lea Thompson, Crispin Glover.

RATING: * * * ½

It's 1985 and Marty McFly, played convincingly by Michael Fox, is a typical teenager who doesn't like his parents and who has some problems at school. His best friend is Doc Brown, probably one of the best performances by Christopher Lloyd, a weird inventor of all kinds of (useless) machines. But this time he has invented something that is much more interesting. He has created a plutonium-powered time machine based on a DeLorean. But when something goes wrong, Marty is accidentally sent back to 1955, the time in which his parents still were young. Not only has he got to adapt to this entirely new environment, he also has to make sure that nothing is changed, because that might have serious consequences for the future...

A feel good movie which has all the ingredients, laughter, thrills, innocence! Back to the future is one of its firsts when it comes to the concept of time travel and yet, it remains the best one has ever seen. The movie will make you fall in love with the characters, will keep you interested and would leave you with a broad smile at the end. Don't give it a miss!

SCARFACE

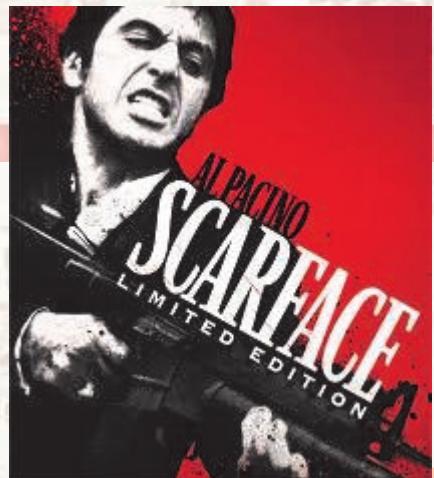

CAST: Al Pacino, Steven Bauer, Michelle Pfeiffer, Robert Loggia.

RATING: * * * ½

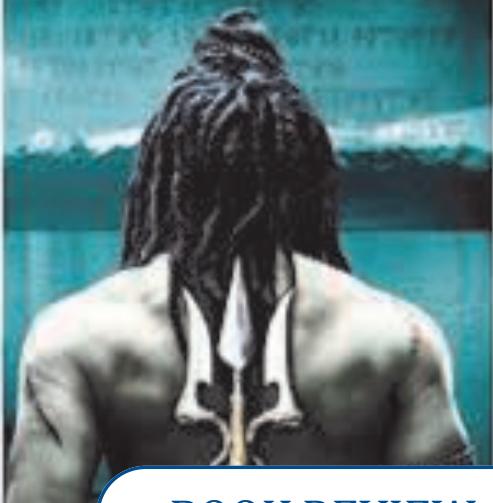

You know a movie is worth a watch when you don't realize that for the past three hours you were glued to your chair with your eyes stuck on the screen. Watching Al Pacino on the screen has always been a treat, partly because of the roles he plays and partly because the way he plays them.. to perfection!!

When Fidel Castro opens the harbor at Mariel, Cuba, he sends 125,000 Cuban refugees to reunite with their relatives in the United States. Among all the refugees, there is one who wants it all, his name is Tony Montana. Tony and his friend Manny arrive in the United States and start in small time jobs. Soon, they are hired by Omar Suarez to pay money to a group of Colombians. When the deal goes wrong, Tony and Manny leave with the money and succeed in their job. Soon Tony meets with drug kingpin Frank Lopez and falls for his boss's girl, Elvira. Pretty soon Tony will know that those who want it all, do not last forever; that is the price of power. The world will know Montana by one name....SCARFACE!!

This movie enters the list of classics not just because of Al Pacino's magical performance as Tony Montana (for he gives such a performance every other day!), but also due to the ultra-violent action, excessively disturbing screenplay combined with few of the most memorable quotes in the Hollywood industry. For all you movie buffs who love everything in excess, everything ranging from forbidden language to bucketful of blood, this movie is tailor-made for you!

THE IMMORTALS OF MELUHA

BOOK REVIEW

-ANMOL BANSAL

THE IMMORTALS OF MELUHA

AUTHOR: Amish Tripathi

RATING: * * * *

I still remember the day when we were sharing our thoughts on some good interesting reads, we referring to me and my friend Ravi. After loads of discussion he came up with this book, The Immortals of Meluha. Earlier I was hesitant to go through this book as I wasn't much into mythology, but now I am addicted to this trilogy!

1900 BC. In what modern Indians mistakenly call the Indus Valley Civilization. The inhabitants of that period called it the land of Meluha, a near perfect empire created many centuries earlier by Lord Ram, one of the greatest monarchs that ever lived. This once proud empire and its Suryavanshi rulers face severe perils as its primary river, the revered Saraswati, is slowly drying to extinction. They also face terrorist attacks from the east, the land of the Chandravanshis. To make matters worse, the Chandravanshis appear to have allied with the Nagas, a sinister race of deformed humans with astonishing martial skills!

The only hope for the Suryavanshis is an ancient legend: When evil reaches epic proportions, when all seems lost, when it appears that your enemies have triumphed, a hero will emerge.

Is the rough-hewn Tibetan immigrant Shiva, really that hero? And does he want to be that hero at all? Drawn suddenly to his destiny, by duty as well as by love, will Shiva lead the Suryavanshi vengeance and destroy evil?

This novel has more than enough twists and turns to keep you interested. Amish brought up all the characters related to Lord Shiva and transformed the Shiva puran into a fantasy read. The language is simple which makes the first time readers even more interested! Having said all, this novel is not meant for the purist. This novel is not meant for someone who is too deeply devoted to Lord Shiva for he would not be able to digest certain facts. But all the others, go for it and get addicted to the Shiva Trilogy!

Poetry Corner

MRIDUL MIGLANI

Hey guys! Did you all know that April was declared as the National Poetry Month in 1996 by Academy of American Poets? Its aim is to increase the awareness and participation in poetry. Many organisations in US celebrate this poetry month through workshops, book displays and other events. So guys, lets praise the place of poetry in Indian Society. This month, let your heart free and pen down your thoughts to discover the hidden poet in you because poetry is all about feelings.

This time, I have written about the sea change that has occurred from 1990s to the present time. Nothing is constant in life except change. It has taken its toll on every aspect of life, whether good or bad. So guys, just take out a minute or 2 from your busy life to think how the course of life has changed and where your journey is heading. Since life is what you make it, only you will decide what happens in your life and no one else.

The forgotten retro days

Gone are the golden days of 90s

Lost in the present's dismal sheen

Some still bask in the glories of these

But all in vain, retro days are nowhere to be seen

Change has taken its toll on everything

And culture is now the slave of western

Indian tradition is an old story, to which nobody wanna cling

Spending money on pompous things, which is more than they earn

Morals washed away like the sand by waves

Today it's all about slangs and callous gestures

Demeanour depends on how the other behaves

As if giving respect will taint their statures

Even love and feelings have changed their course

Communication is now chatting and emotions are emoticons

Texting is the medium to express one's remorse

Talking is an old concept, let alone morning wishes at the dawns

Fashion has chosen a direction that no one understands

Shorter the attire's length, higher is the rates

Wardrobe is just a cluster of queer and bizarre brands

In some situations, what you wear decides your fates

BICYCLES

Technology has gone beyond one's imagination

Human effort has diminished, making them too lazy

Even a child is a technocrat, using gizmos without any preparation

But the thought of using old gadgets is loony and still hazy

Now Politics and corruption, go hand in hand

it's the most blamed field, with which no one is pleased for system failure, no one's got the courage to take a stand to get any work done, many palms need to be greased

...

Journey from 90s to 2013 has been a roller coaster ride

For some, it's a mess and for others it's still a dream

Undoubtedly, every field has flourished with a major stride

And keeping our hands crossed, we pray for our future to gleam!
